Donald, the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nemeth of 159th street, Orland township, was stricken ill, suddenly during his sleep late Saturday night and died Monday evening of polio, in Cook county hospital.

The little lad felt well and happy Saturday night when he went to bed, and roused his parents during the night because he had a headache, fever and was sick to his stomach. A physician was called and it was thought he had the flu. Sunday afternoon he complained he could not stand and early Monday morning he was rushed to the hospital where he was at once placed in an iron lung and given oxygen.

His parents left their home with him at 1:15 Monday morning and had police escort all the way, guiding and directing them so as to avoid the worst of the flooded areas. Police Chief Herbert Lucas of Orland Park escorted them through the Orland section. They arrived at the hospital at 3 a. m. He died that evening at 6 o'clock.

Surviving beside his parents, are three brothers, James, Paul and Thomas; his maternal grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Begrowicz of Harvey and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Nemeth of 159th street.

The body was removed to the Schmaedeke funeral home in Orland Park. Services will be held this morning, Oct. 14 at 10 o'clock in St. Michael's Catholic church in Orland Park.

GLEN COOPER NEW OIL JOBBER IN ORLAND

Glen Cooper of the Orland Park area has opened a modern bulk plant for storage of oils, Diesel fuel and gasoline near the intersection of Routes 6 and 45. Mr. Cooper, who has been a commission driver for a number of years since 1950, will handle Conoco products by the Continental Oil Co.

The new company, to be known as Cooper Oil Co., will store its fuels in one of the most modern and streamlined bulk plants in northern Illinois. This plant consists of five storage tanks with a total capacity of 75,000 gallons and a pumping system which operates at extremely high speed.

Deliveries will be made in a streamlined 1400-gallon Progress truck tank equipped with the latest delivery devices. "I have installed the best equipment of the latest design to insure accurate and fast delivery of fuels," Mr. Cooper says. "For example, we are using a ticket printing meter for all fuel oil. The customer has positive proof of the exact number of gallons delivered because the printer on the meter is a part of the measuring device."

All equipment for the new bulk plant was furnished by Schooley & Summers of Mattoon, Ill., specialists in the oil equipment field who also supervised the installation.

INSURANCE MAN IS VICTIM OF KNIFE ATTACK

Leonard Roe, 24, of 395 N. Harrison St., Kankakee, an insurance man was collecting for another agent in the 4500 block on Vincennes Ave., in Chicago was severely injured in an assault by four negroes Saturday night, Oct. 9.

On completion of his route he returned to his car and was driving away when he was surprised by a negro who had been hiding in the rear of Roe's car. The man placed a knife at Roe's neck and directed him to drive to Wolf Road and Archer Ave.

At this point they were joined by three others.

These men also entered Roe's car and attacked him inflicting severe cuts and bruises, causing Roe to lose consciousness.

One of the men took over the driving and when Roe came to he found himself in his car one mile east and 1/4 mile south of Marley. His abductors had disappeared.

His shoes were stolen so he walked barefooted to the Harold Jones farm west of Mokena where Jones called county police who took Roe to the Silver Cross hospital in Joliet. It required seven stitches to close the wound in his upper left arm. He had been robbed of $30 of his own and $70 of company collections.

Roe told police that a week prior to the incident he had been the victim of a similar attack but had escaped injury. He was released from the hospital Sunday.

The board members thought that several individuals or civic organizations might like to furnish a tree and have it planted as a lasting memorial. In the event that anyone is interested, the necessary information can be secured in the school. The actual planting will be done by the regular school's maintenance staff.

LOCKPORT BELIEVED HARDEST HIT IN AREA WITH RECORD FLOOD SUN.

Many Driven From Homes As Downpour Causes Over $3 Million In Damage

A 6.8 inch rainfall in 36 hours last Sunday drove hundreds of families from their homes in Joliet, and the Lockport area. Flooded rivers and streams in the area caused damage which will probably exceed $3 million. Many were driven from their homes in the suburbs to the southwest of Chicago as the area was deluged with the heaviest rainfall in nearly 70 years.

Lockport was believed to be the hardest hit from the flood which started around 3:30 a.m. Sunday when Big Run creek and the old Illinois-Michigan canal overflowed their banks. Around 75 families were evacuated in Lockport during the afternoon after around 100 left for higher ground earlier Sunday morning. Santa Fe railroad tracks at Lockport were undermined and trains were routed over the G. M. & O. until noon Monday.

The nearby Illinois and Michigan canal was overwhelmed by the water load and the west bank was breached between 6th and 9th sts., Lockport, about 3:30 a.m.

Water poured into the "Valley" section of Lockport and reached a depth of about 5 feet. More than 100 homes were flooded. Some families moved what furniture they could to second floors. At least 15 families were evacuated by boat by police.

Other towns which suffered heavy flood damage included Palos Park, Markham, South Holland, Stickney, Hammond, and Whiting.

It was believed that the area of heaviest rainfall centered in Blue Island and Homewood and extended as far as Evergreen Park on the north, Park Forest and Chicago Heights on the south, the Indiana communities on the east and Orland Park on the west.

It was the Southwest Side of Chicago, particularly the suburbs, that took the storm's blows.

In Midlothian, 400 people were marooned in their homes. Every house in the village was surrounded by water. Police (Continued on page 5)

Republican "Open House" Saturday At Frankfort

A Republican open house will be held in the village hall in Frankfort Saturday evening, Oct. 16. It is being sponsored by the Frankfort and Green Garden Republican committeemen, A. H. Krusemark and William Bettenhausen.

This is being done to give local people from this area an opportunity to meet the county candidates for election in November. The hours will be from 7:30 to 9 and everyone is invited to stop in at the hall, have a cup of coffee and visit. Committee women, Mrs. Bernice Peterson and Mrs. Amanda Dralle will preside at the refreshment table.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN?

With prison guards out on strike and picketing the Indiana state penitentiary, the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois wonders what would have happened if a prisoner on his way to the pen in custody of a member of the policeman's union refused to cross the picket line.

Jackson F. Boyd, 1123 George, Chicago, a Bible salesman and part time flying instructor, was killed Oct. 6 when his plane crashed in a field near 151st and Harlem, a short time after he took off from Harlem airport. Critically injured in the crash was John D. Braschler, 19, of 109 W. 107th St., Chicago, a student pilot. Police believe Boyd was piloting the plane when it crashed.

A two passenger Piper Cub plane, from the Harlem airport at 88th and Harlem, crashed in a cornfield between 153rd and 154th and 77th Ave., Oct. 6, fatally injuring the pilot, Jackson F. Boyd, age 30, of 1123 George St., Chicago. The student pilot, John D. Braschler, 19, of 109 W. 107th St., was critically injured. Boyd was at the controls when the plane went into a spin 500 ft. in the air, and crashed into the cornfield. Braschler managed to walk to a farm house at 159th St., to report the accident.

Both men were taken to Oak Forest Infirmary where Boyd died.

The plane was a light trainer type with dual controls. It was owned by the Crea Flying Service of Oak Lawn.

MOKENA DOG IN PARADE

Bill Rupnow, a retired fireman of Detroit, Mich., was a four day visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fortman of Woodland Circle, Mokena. His niece, Ruth excitedly remarked, "We've entered our big beautiful boxer puppy in the pet parade, Uncle Bill." So they got their entry ready and drove him to the waiting procession of canines.

When "Ike" saw the array of animals, he made one wild dash out of the car and promptly got into a dog fight dragging his mistress Cathy with him. Cathy cried, while brother Kenny and sister Debbie stared in bewilderment. Uncle Bill laughed and Ruth quickly ran after Ike.

Even tho Ike never did get back into the parade to win any of the prizes; to the Fortman family; he's still their blue ribbon champion.

Overlound Crowd Fills
to the parents to send pupils who are "teachable."

Miss Beverly Schultz, English and speech teacher, presented a reading of a dedicatory message written by Carl Sandburg which appeared on the front cover of the program and also in the Oct. 7 issue of this newspaper.

Mrs. Donald Bond, chairman of the dedication committee, introduced Carl Sandburg. She told that Mr. Sandburg began writing poetry at an early age and came to Chicago where his first book was published. It was titled, "Chicago Poems". There are very few editions left now. Mrs. Bond also explained that Mr. Sandburg, early in life, had come under the influence of the writings of another great Illinois man—Abraham Lincoln, and then presented Carl Sandburg.

The capacity-filled gymnasium gave him a standing ovation, and in his strong voice and keen intellect, he said that he was honored and deeply moved at having this high school named after him. A feeling of solemnity came over him, he said, as he passed through the Illinois prairies and past the many red barns on his way to the dedication. He congratulated the board of education and "any taxpayers" who might be present, and the teen agers who are the destiny of our country which has always been the unknown. He compared our country with Checkoslovakia and mentioned the advantages America has, in not having title, nobility, and "no class that exercises its influence of an inherited title over others."

"Here we do not have a uniformity of opinion such as in Russia," he said. In speaking of a patriot he mentioned what has happened in Germany, happened in Russia and can happen anywhere, "when we forget where we came from."

He dwelt briefly on the precious word of Freedom, and said we cannot have freedom without responsibility. He then read a portion of pamphlet which was read aloud to congress by Lincoln.

This pamphlet was written by Sir James McIntosh, a Philadelphia surgeon which quoted Bacon from the 13th century in listing the four stumbling blocks of truth, they are, 1. influence of fragile or unworthy authority, 2. Custom, 3. Imperfection of un-disciplined senses, 4. concealing of ignorance by covering it up by a pretension of seeming wisdom "pretending to know what you don't know". He deplored radio and television as time wasting consumption and spoke of those that must have their certain TV programs as being equivalent to an addiction.

He mentioned that the programs are mostly trash and rubbish and he urged us not to let good books stand on the shelf unread while listening to, or watching radio and TV.

Mr. Sandburg said that this area was not unfamiliar ground to him stating that while living in Maywood 47 years ago he took frequent bike rides around this area and recalled giving a lecture on Walt Whitman at Blue Island.

After saying that he had been prevailed upon to bring his guitar and play, he put his foot on a chair and accompanied himself as he sang in a strong voice several spiritual and ballad type songs such as "Hold My Hand, Lord Jesus, Hold My Hand", "Way Down on the Wabash", and the state song of North Carolina. He closed with the Illinois state song. He complimented the four girl clarinet players and the girl bass drum player in the orchestra saying that that was the first time he had seen a girl play a bass drum and four girl clarinet players. He ended his speech with "I give you a heart of love."

Benediction was given by the Rev. Father Frank M. Covie representative of the Ministerial association.

Guests then toured the building and also had an opportunity to talk to Sandburg. Many found their contact with him inspiring.

Joe Meeks Winds Up All-State Tour In Northern Counties
Enduring farm prosperity will come from the combined efforts of agricultural industries to develop expanding markets for farm products in the competitive tradition of free enterprise, Joseph T. Meek, Republican nominee for U. S. Senator, said at Woodstock Oct. 1. Milk and meat industries are meeting this challenge, he said.
The alternative is "political agriculture" and a gradual sellout of American liberties to bureaucratic control, with eventual collapse into socialism, Meek declared.

Meek played his Democratic opposition for "ignoring basic farm truths" and "perverting a little hardship into a case for big government control of our whole economy."

"Whose word will you take?" Meek repeatedly asked his farm community audiences. "Do you prefer the misery-mongering of my opponent, running for office with the prediction that price supports on wheat will dip 19c a bushel next year, 46c in 1956 and 62c in 1957? Or will you believe the secretary of agriculture when he flatly states that in 1955 we will support corn at 90c of parity, according to today's supply outlook; that the support of wheat at 82½ percent of parity will mean an average loan level of about $2.05 a bushel, which is 97 percent of modernized parity and well above the world price?

"My opponent has a duty as a senator to inform himself accurately and then to respect these declarations of the department of agriculture," Meek stated.

"Supporting any industry at a level above its worth to consumers in a free market results in surpluses, followed by government controls on production, until finally individual initiative comes to a dead end. Nowhere is this cycle more quickly evident than in agriculture. Failing to admit these things, is ignoring basic farm truths," Meek said.

"All the professional planners want for 1954 is to get back into office where they can dig themselves in for the fight for total control of government that is bound to come in 1956."

"What Republicans want and what I as a senator would be pledged to do is to help agricultural industries regain their health in a free market. This can be done by finding new markets for their products as they used to be able to do."

"It is madness and tragedy to drain our resources to fight communism abroad while we adopt it peacefully at home."

SAFETY CONGRESS

When the 42nd national Safety congress and exposition gets underway in Chicago Oct. 18, with an attendance of 12,000 persons, members of the National Safety council's headquarters staff will be in charge of the huge convention's 200 working sessions in six of the city's hotels—Conrad Hilton, Blackstone, Palmer House, Congress, La Salle and Morrison.

Wet weather brings greater chances that your car will be involved in a skid, warns the Chicago Motor Club. Motorist should not step on the brake pedal when the car is skidding, but should take their foot off the accelerator and turn the car wheels carefully in the direction of skid.

Bremen Braves Win Over Batavia 26-13

Bremen high school Braves scored a decisive 26-13 football win at Batavia Friday night, Oct. 1.
 Scoring a touchdown in the first six minutes of play, Bremen never was challenged by the big lads from Batavia.

Linsey, Bremen halfback, tossed a pass from the twenty-five yard line to teammate F. Warszalek in the end zone for the Braves' first touchdown.
 Climaxing a 70 yard drive, Ron Gaiqua, high point man for the Braves this season, scampered 21 yards around right end for the second score. The Braves led at half-time 12-0.
 Batavia trailed a TD early in the third period when they drove the length of the field for their first score. The kick for the extra point was blocked, and Bremen was ahead 12-6.
 In the final period the game turned into a free scoring affair. Ron Gallina accounted for two Brave touchdowns on runs of 45 and 48 yards behind the vicious blocking Bremen line.
 Coaches Larry Callan and Emil Lussow sent in the second stringers for the final minutes of play, and Batavia scored their second marker.
 Friday night the Bremen Braves journey to Reavis for their first conference tilt.

The Chicago Motor Club says the safe driver paces his driving to the speed of traffic. He drives neither slower nor faster than the rest. He knows busy city streets are not the place to try to get ahead of another driver—just to beat him to a stoplight.

You can drive yourself to sleep warns the Chicago Motor Club. Traveling at high speeds along a monotonous stretch of highway can hypnotize you into even following a truck right off the road and crashing into it. Avoid highway hypnosis by stopping and resting from time to time.

You can't stop your car suddenly at high speeds. Leave a margin of safety between your car and the car ahead.

Here's How Much a High School Diploma Is Worth in Dollars and Cents

Almost lost in the thousands of pages of statistics recently released in the Federal Census of Population was an analysis showing the relation of schooling to income.

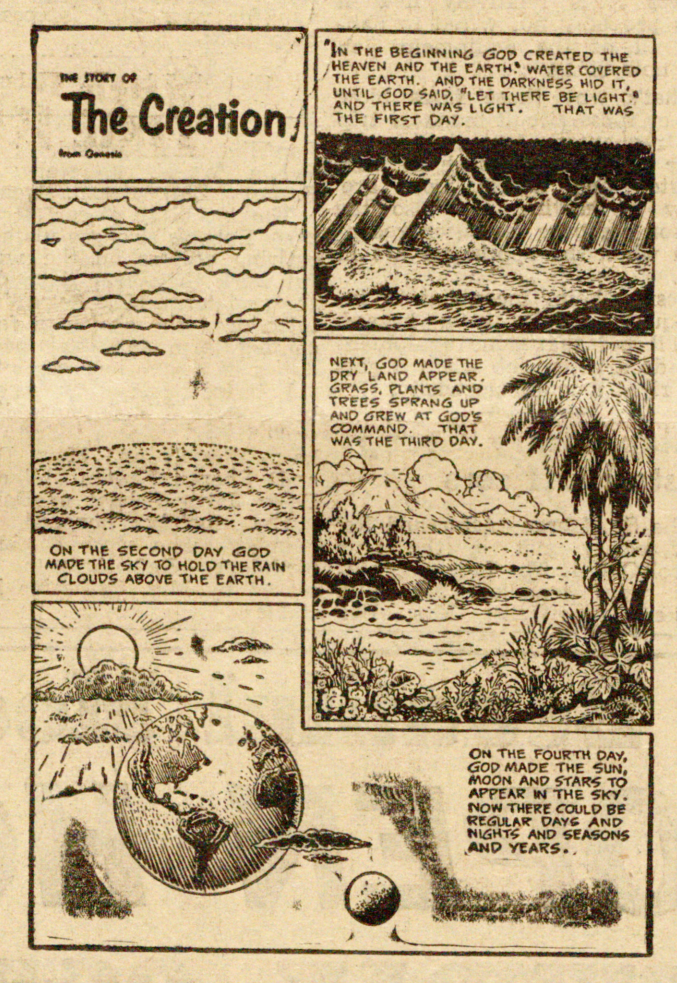

The figures show that the average man with a high school diploma earned 28% more than a man who had only a grammar school education. The actual figures reveal that a high school graduate averages $3,285 a year against only $2,533 for a grammar school graduate. What's more, a man with only one to three years of high school earns considerably less than a high school graduate.

Aside from the higher income and self-confidence that come with a high school diploma, the door is opened to a college degree. The same government study shows that college graduates earned an average of 42% more than grammar school graduates.

Educators are concerned over the large numbers of teen-agers dropping out of high school, because later on they will find that the lack of a high school diploma is an almost insurmountable handicap as far as better jobs are concerned. As a result, many men and women, unable to attend classes, are completing their high school education in spare time at home by correspondence. Thousands who have undertaken home study have found the method convenient, effective and economical and as a result of these courses have obtained better paying positions and even entered the country's leading colleges and universities.

Further information about getting a high school education through home study may be obtained by writing Educational News, 46 West 57th Street, New York 19, N. Y.

ENTIRE BIBLE IS RETOLD IN PICTURES FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

The story of Creation (above) begins the complete story of the Bible in full-color picture strips for use in Sunday schools throughout the country. "Our Bible in Pictures" is a new feature of Sunday Pix, a 12-page picture weekly that is distributed to more than a million Sunday school students of all denominations. It is the first time such a project has ever been undertaken for Sunday schools. Editors estimate it will take three or four years for the entire Bible, from Genesis to Revelations, to be pictorialized in weekly installments. The David C. Cook Publishing Company of Elgin, Ill., which produces Sunday Pix, decided to undertake it because it feels that cartoon strips, which have been used so long and successfully by newspapers to entertain their readers, are a particularly effective educator. "Our Bible in Pictures" is expected to give its young readers a religious background they will never forget.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Scripture: Proverbs 3-4. Devotional: Proverbs 4:10-20.

Way of Wisdom

Lesson for October 17, 1954

WHAT is the main thing to be desired in life? Different answers have been given and still are given. Some people think they would rather be rich than anything else; others count health the number one must; others value freedom above all things. There is a section of the Bible in which all the writers unite in giving an answer still different from any of these. "Wisdom is the principal thing," say they all, "therefore get wisdom." Dr. Foreman

The book of Proverbs is part of what Bible scholars call the Wisdom Literature. It is unique among the books of the Bible. It does not tell a story, it has no plot, no argument. It consists of a large number of sayings or proverbs, put together for the most part with very little order. You can try the experiment some time of reading aloud any chapter in Proverbs from chapter 10 through chapter 29, backward (i.e. the last verse first, then the next-to-last, and so on to the first verse), and see whether your listeners know you are reading backward.

Knowledge and Wisdom

But while the book of Proverbs is not all arranged in orderly sequence, there is harmony all through it. The great theme is Wisdom. The whole race of man is divided here into three kinds of persons: the wise, the fools, and the young—who can choose wisdom now before it is too late. (No fool like an old fool!) Wisdom is by no means the same thing as knowledge. Almost anybody can acquire knowledge; all it takes is perseverance and a good memory. Knowledge can be gained quickly, as the rapid-instruction classes in the army have shown. A person can learn a language, well enough to get along with it, in a year's concentrated time. But when he speaks it, will what he says be wise? A man may know a dozen languages and yet talk no sense in any of them. A high school student can make "A" in agriculture in his examinations on the book, and still not be a good future farmer. Wisdom is founded on knowledge; the complete ignoramus can never be wise. But wisdom is more than knowledge; it is knowing what to do with knowledge, how to put it to work.

Wisdom Is From God

In the book of Proverbs wisdom is not only different from knowledge, it is different from what is sometimes called worldly wisdom. Men are sometimes called wise by unthinking persons when they are merely wise in the ways of the world—smart, shrewd, able to look out for themselves, always alighting on their feet, like cats. The wisdom commended in Proverbs is not worldly, it is divine. It differs from ordinary smartness in two ways. First, it is from God. It can be learned anywhere ("Go to the ant... consider her ways, and be wise") but God is the final source of wisdom. In other words, wisdom in these pages means much the same as what other writers call conforming to the will of God. It means looking at things with the eye and the mind of God. Further, as the writers of Proverbs see it, true wisdom includes God; that is to say, the wise man will remember God while the fool either never gives God a thought, or says in his heart, there is no God. He is the most important fact in the universe; to leave him out of all our calculations is to be a top-flight fool.

Wisdom Is for This World

There have been good pious people who didn't know quite what to do with this book of Proverbs. For it is out of line with any other-worldly notion of religion. People who think that religion and common sense are two different things; people who think religion is concerned with things unseen while common sense deals with everyday facts; people who think that religion is chiefly concerned with death and what comes after—all these people are taken aback by the earthly simplicities of the Proverbs. The wisdom which is here admired and praised is not anything "out of this world," it is strictly for this world. A former governor of Virginia testified that during his term of office he had received more help in the practical problems of government from the book of Proverbs than from any of the books on political science which lined his library shelves.

Wealth Of Nature

Our basic natural resources are water and the soil. Luckily for us they both exist in great quantity. They work together to support life. Water actually creates new soil by slowly wearing away the rock of the earth's crust. Water also brings life to the soil; plants cannot make use of the soil's wealth of minerals unless they are dissolved.

These two together support our forests and grasslands. The kind of plants that can live in a certain place depends on the amount or rain which falls there. And these trees, plants and grasses, in turn, protect water and the soil. Where there are many plants, their roots hold the soil in place. When it rains, the water is held on the land to do its work. But where there are few plants the water runs over the surface of the land, carrying the soil with it. The streams become muddy. Deep gullies appear on the land. Worst of all, many tons of precious soil are carried down the rivers to the ocean, lost forever to our use.

Water maintains our wildlife. It is easy to see why water resources—not only fish and wildlife but also animals and birds, has been called "the key to Nature's treasure-house. Water has indeed been Man's best friend. It is hard to understand why we have allowed ourselves to neglect and mistreat it.

Faulty brakes cause one in three accidents due to mechanical failure in autos, says the Chicago Motor Club. Have brakes checked frequently, refined every 5,000 miles.

BABSON SAYS—

Copyright, 1954, Publishers
Financial Bureau, Inc.

Everyone should employ a lawyer and make a will at once, and re-read it once each year. Over 70% of those who die each day leave no will. Inquiry shows, however, that a large percentage of these careless people have some property. When they die without a will, this property usually goes to someone whom they don't want to get it.

Making a will is especially important if your name is Smith, Brown, Jones, or some equally popular name. (If you have any doubt as to the number of people having your name, just refer to any large city telephone directory.) If you happen to own a house when you die, your family may get hundreds of letters claiming relationship.

Probably the Probate Court will throw out most of these claims as fraudulent; but some may be left whom your family must "buy off" before a clear title can be given to the real estate or the stock or bond which you own. I am much troubled by the fact that the number of stockholders and Government bondholders is increasing so much faster than the wills are being written.

Each year about $500,000,000 are paid by insurance companies for the 40,000 people killed in automobile accidents. Most of those killed leave no wills, yet they get "awards" of from $10,000 to $20,000 or more.

What persons would you like to have receive your part of this $500,000,000 in case you should be killed? It depends upon the laws of your state; but the chances are it may go to "relatives" whom you never saw. Hence, before you take another auto ride, you should make a will stating to whom you want this award to go in case you do get killed. I forecast the time may come when states will not be allowed to issue auto registrations to those 21 and over unless the applicant swears he has made a will.

Every up-to-date corporation and employer carries liability insurance to protect workers and customers. You do not need to be in an automobile to get accidentally killed. I see by the newspaper that about 90 New England people were killed by hurricanes this past month; none of these people had any warning. Many more are burned to death each week somewhere.

Perhaps you are included in some Group Life Insurance Plan. These plans pay, regardless of how you die. You do not have to be killed in an automobile or any other kind of accident in order to get such an insurance award. You may die from pneumonia, polio, heart attack, or some other trouble which comes on suddenly.

For some foolish reason, most people do not like to visit a doctor, dentist, or lawyer, unless in pain or some other trouble. This is all wrong. These men will treat you fairly. And this surely applies also to lawyers whom your bank recommends.

Every reader of my column has a savings deposit with some bank. These banks want to help you in many ways, without charge. If you have not made a will, go to your bank tomorrow and ask your banker to recommend some lawyer who can make a will for you at a fair price. You may know some lawyer yourself; but you should be sure he knows how to make legal wills which "holds water" and cannot be broken.

If you are not ready to do this immediately, I have arranged with the Non-Profit Educational Information Center here at New Boston, N.H., (not "Old Boston" which may be bombed!) to send you, for Two Dollars, a blank form for a Temporary Will and other information. This blank form you can fill out in a few minutes and have witnessed by three neighbors at no expense.

Later you can take this to your lawyer for a re-write when you think of some addition you may wish to make. But don't wait to take some step at once. Next week may be too late. At least, send for a temporary will now; it will serve you until you do go to your lawyer.

List Liability Risks Of Farmers

As an owner or user of property, the farmer has a duty to maintain it in such a way as not to injure others. His responsibility runs in three directions: (1) personal liability, (2) liability to employees and (3) motor vehicle liability.

To avoid personal liability, a farmer has a duty:

1. To prevent injury to visitors to his farm. His highest responsibility is to his farm. His highest responsibility is to those he invites to his place. There is less responsibility to licensees, such as salesmen; and he owes trespassers only the duty of not willfully harming them.
2. To keep livestock off highways.
3. To take every reasonable physical precaution in handling dangerous animals.
4. To prevent fire from spreading to another's property.
5. To keep insecticides and weed-control sprays off his neighbors' property.
6. To keep fences in good repair and animals inside.

pair and animals inside.

7. To control a bad-tempered or sheep-killing dog.

8. To do all of the many other things that would be characterized as carefulness and not carelessness.

However, the injured party also has legal responsibilities. If he contributed to the injury by careless or negligent, there may be no liability at all. Therefore, it is important to make an immediate written record of what happened and how.

The second type of liability is to employees. With increased use of machinery on farms, several states have extended workmen's compensation laws to the farm. Although Illinois has not done so, each Illinois farmer may voluntarily elect to come under the state workmen's compensation act. This law sets up a schedule of awards to be paid by an employer for each type of injury his employee might suffer. Negligence is not taken into account.

Unless the farmer has elected workmen's compensation, the general rules of liability apply. The question of who was careless or negligent is the most important question that is often decided by a jury. To avoid liability to employees, a farmer should:

1. Provide a safe place to work.
2. Furnish safe equipment.
3. Warn hired men of any hazards they would not readily find.

As owners of automobiles, trucks and tractors, farmers may be liable if the operation of these vehicles results in personal injury or property damage to others. There is also liability for the negligence of a member of the family or an employee if they were using a vehicle for family or farm business. Because of the high degree of risk and the financial responsibility law, almost everyone carries insurance for protection against motor vehicle liability. However, lives will be saved and insurance rates kept reasonable only if:

1. All vehicles used on the highways are maintained in top repair.
2. All driving members of the family and employees are thoroughly indoctrinated with good driving practices.

LINCOLN WAY SCHOOL NEWS

Following is a copy of a letter received from Mr. Walgren, State Industrial Arts Supervisor: "Dear Mr. Chapman: I enjoyed visiting your school on Sept. 30, and discussing with you and your industrial arts instructor, Mr. Kruzich, your shop program. I was favorably impressed by the friendly atmosphere in your school and above all I want to compliment you on your fine building.

You are fortunate to have a man as Mr. Kruzich in your industrial arts department. He has a sound philosophy of shop work and it appears that he will work well with his associates. His courses are very well organized. Related information is being taught. A student personnel system is being organized. The student interest was high and their attitude was exceptionally good during my visit. Mr. Kruzich is one of the outstanding industrial arts teachers in my area of the State.

The broad general program that you are offering to your industrial arts students is good and should meet their present needs. The equipment that you have purchased for this program is of good quality and perhaps will serve their purpose for many years to come. It is felt, however, that you may not be satisfied with your present drawing tables.

Mr. Kruzich has spent a great deal of time in organizing and laying out his department. He does have a number of items yet to be done, but I am sure, that with his interest and enthusiasm, all major items will be done in short order. Even though some work is being done and some in the planning stage, your industrial arts shop presents a very pleasing appearance due to the neat arrangement, the paint, and good housekeeping. It is suggested that two fire extinguishers be installed in the shop—one in the hot metals area and one in the finishing room.

With your permission I would like to refer other interested school people to your industrial arts department. I am looking forward to my next visit. Thank you for your kind interest and hospitality.

Very truly yours,
Signed John W. Walgren.

List Symptoms Of Inadequate Wiring

If you have to disconnect one appliance in order to plug in another or if your lights dim noticeably when your appliances are being used, your wiring is not adequate.

"Octopus" outlets throughout the house and long cords strung around rooms are also indications of inadequate wiring.

Your home no doubt contains many electrical appliances, and unless it is relatively new it was probably not wired to handle all of the equipment you are now using.

That's why those fuses blow out or those circuit breakers trip so frequently. And that's why your appliances, such as iron, toaster and waffle iron, are slow in heating. It's also the reason for poor television reception when the appliances are in use.

Besides being inconvenient, inadequate wiring is a hazard. You'll find that your equipment can do a better job when it gets the right amount electricity.
